AGCO, a global leader in the design, manufacture and distribution of agricultural machinery and precision agriculture technology, requires a comprehensive emergency response solution like BluePoint Alert.

"Last August, we had another employee go into full cardiac arrest, they pulled the medical station and multiple on-site responders were there within a minute and started CPR. Because of the rapid response, he was revived before permanent damage occurred, and continues to live a happy and healthy life." "Since implementing BluePoint, our emergency response has improved dramatically. The real-time communication and two-way alerts have enhanced employee safety and streamlined our entire risk management process across multiple campuses. We now have a reliable, efficient system that ensures everyone is informed and ready to act when it matters most." - Brody Fontenot, Cajun Industries

"We activated the medical pull-station and followed up with a 911 call to provide additional details. Unfortunately, the dispatch center never picked up. Minutes later they called the 911 caller. Once they found out it was from Hill Mechanical they stated they had already dispatched the fire department to the scene from the alert received through BluePoint." - Hill Mechanical
